Market commentary

South Africa: The quarter started with a somewhat surprising move by the SARB to increase the repo rate by 25 basis-points to 6.75%. Reserve Bank Governor Lesetja Kganyago suggested that the Bank had the choice of either holding off hiking rates now or being pre-emptive in an attempt to reduce inflationary expectations. Then the ABSA manufacturing PMI reached a 15-month low of 42.4 in October, we saw weaker than expected tourist accommodation occupancy and a larger than expected current account deficit in Q3 of 3.5% which all weighed negatively on the market. On the positive side, the South African economy rebounded in Q3 as the GDP expanded by 2.2% vs consensus of 1.6%. S&P Global credit ratings agency left South Africa's local and foreign currency ratings unchanged. But the JSE All Share still lost 5.3% during the quarter, despite adding 4.1% during the month of December. Industrials lost 7.0% following a 30% decline in British American Tobacco while Resources (-4.5%) pulled back following a 38.0% decline in the price of Brent crude oil which ended the quarter on $53.80.

International: The U.S started the quarter on the right foot as its economy grew faster than expected with a YoY increase of 3.5% in Q3'18. Consumer spending also had its strongest showing in almost four years, increasing by 4.0%. This was followed with stronger than expected jobs numbers as well as third quarter corporate earnings rising by more than 25% YoY. However, in December markets moved sharply lower following the FOMC decision to increase interest rates by 25 basis points, as expected, but unexpectedly lowered its economic growth projections for 2019 from 2.5% to 2.3%. Furthermore, markets had to deal with a U.S government shutdown from the 22nd December as Congress refused to grant President Trump the necessary funding to build his border wall. This resulted in the S&P 500 (-14.0%), Dow Jones (-11.8%) and Nasdaq (-17.5%) to move significantly lower.

In contrast to the U.S, Europe started the quarter on the back foot as economic activity in the Eurozone slowed, recording its softest expansion numbers in four years, while Germany and Italy's economies unexpectedly contracted during the third quarter. On a more optimistic note, the ECB decided it will cease its quantitative easing (QE), all the major EU banks passed the annual stress tests and Italy lowered its budget deficit forecast from 2.40% of GDP to 2.04%. These positives weren't enough to buoy markets as the Euro Stoxx 600 (-13.2%), German Dax (-13.8%), France CAC (-13.9%), Spain's IBEX (-9.1%), FTSE Italy (-11.5%) and FTSE 100 (-10.4%) all ended the quarter lower.

Strategy

This strategy has a healthy exposure to bonds which continue to remain resilient over the long term. However, very weak local and global equity markets have resulted in a negative quarter. For the strategy to track back in line with its long-term CPI plus target over the longer term, risk assets like equity need to revert back to their long term mean performance over time.

We continue to be comfortable with the portfolio's positioning to provide consistent long-term returns in line with its objective.
